

Since XM is not imposing on some other stations frequency it should have the right to enter the market as it seems fit. Here in California the issue of emergency radio broadcasts also are part of the equation. What a great solution: satellite radio with local emergency information available. If something really major happens here the land based radio stations will be hard pressed to broadcast.